

An updated QR code proof of vaccination that meets the recommended Canadian standards for travel is now available at alberta.ca/CovidRecords.

After filling in your information, be sure to "save your record" for the PDF containing your valid QR code record.

Digital and printed versions are valid. Both this version and the previous QR code record can be used at Alberta businesses. You don't need the updated record unless you are travelling.

If you need a printed record, you can get one at no cost by visiting a registry agent or calling Health Link 811. For assistance downloading your record, please visit alberta.ca/CovidRecordsHelp.

Businesses may need to update the AB Covid Records Verifier app to read the updated code. You can check if you have the latest version of the app by going to the Google or Apple store. If a record is still showing as not valid when scanned after the update, uninstall the app and then install it again.